VISIT THE EVERGREEN MUSEUM

The Evergreen Museum, the cornerstone of the Evergreen Heritage Center, was originally built in the late 1700s and was officially recognized as a Maryland Historical Home in 1976.

Evergreen began as log cabin circa 1780, became a plantation in the 1820s, and evolved to a farming homestead in the 1870s, when owner Winfield Scott Trimble named the property Evergreen for the 13 species of fledging evergreen trees that he planted there.

The Evergreen Museum

The six bedroom Evergreen Museum features the original fireplace kitchen where slaves prepared family meals, a large double parlor with French doors for women in their long hoop skirts, and quaint guest rooms where fireplaces provided the only source of heat within the two foot thick walls. The Museum is filled with antiques and artifacts from both the colonial and Victorian eras, including over 250 books dating back to the 1700s and hundreds of historical documents. The Museum also displays a dollhouse replica of Evergreen in Victorian times.

The Museum is available for private tours and is also open to the public on select Sundays from May through October. Visit our website at www.evergreenheritagecenter.org for our season schedule or phone 301-687-0664 or email us at foundation@evergreenheritagecenter.org for more information.

TOUR THE EVERGREEN BARN

The Evergreen Barn, also built in the late 1700s, transports the visitor back in time. The Barn was built on a hillside to provide ground level access to the stables in the front, as well as ground level entry to the upper threshing floor by hay wagons. The barn's frame is constructed with large wooden pegs (not nails) and its cantilevered beams (made from hand-hewn logs) are over 45' long. The Barn is open for private tours and to the public per the Museum's schedule.

WALK THE EVERGREEN TRAIL

Coal mining began at Evergreen in 1902, with various deep mining operations that continued through the 1940s. To support that effort, a tram-way was built that hauled the coal from the deep mines to the railroad. Along the tramway, mining companies created living quarters for the miners, a blacksmith shop, a forge, and a mule stable. Remnants of these remain today, as well as evidence of the evolution of the tram-way transportation that began with mules and ponies and eventually utilized a dinky steam engine. Today the Evergreen Coal Trail with its 22 points of interest traces the path of that historic coal tram-way.

HOST AN EVENT AT EVERGREEN

The Evergreen Heritage Center would be happy to host an event for your organization. We can provide indoor space for up to 50 people and can recommend local caterers who will serve lunch or dinner to your group. Participants may also enjoy a tour of the Museum and Barn and /or a walk on the Trail. For more information call 301-687-0664.

SUPPORT OUR EHC EDUCATION PROGRAMS

The Evergreen Heritage Center Foundation is dedicated to using the Evergreen Heritage Center to providing opportunities for indoor/outdoor learning. To do so, the Foundation has partnered with schools, colleges, and universities as well as public service organizations such as the YMCA, the Salvation Army, the Human Resources Development Commission, and the Maryland Dept. of Juvenile Services, and is offering environmental education and other hands-on learning experiences for children and youth of all ages and circumstances. To learn more, call 301-687-0664.
